Those leaving here recently for other points were Mrs. Anna Schreiber, Mr. and Mrs. William Davison.

Select Second Experimental Depot

EDMONTON, May 17.—Selection of a second experimental station on the grass wooded soils has been announced. The selection completes the two promised some months ago, one covered a sub-station located at McLennan, direction of which comes under the Beaverlodge district.

Selection of the second station will be made at the end of the Athabasca station will come under the direction of the LaCrosse experimental farm.

Visit High Prairie

HIGH PRAIRIE, May 17.—Lawrence J. Hansen, director of the Department of Fisher and Game, High Prairie recently on the way to Vermillion where he will attend a course beginning June 1, has been appointed by J. L. Jansen, chief Game inspector of Alberta, was in High Prairie May 16. He is enroute to Peace River. In an interview he stressed the fact that the "fire prevention campaign must be here and appealed to all residents to practice fire prevention."

To Start Egg Grading

BELLIS, May 17.—Mrs. Metro Laundry, Bellis, will leave Tuesday to make arrangements to open an egg grading station here. She will be located in the new building on Main street.

Mrs. Ted Sheehan and her young son, Michael, left yesterday for Clive, where her husband is located with the government.

Wrestling Card

CAMROSE, May 17.—Al Mills, owner of the new Camrose Auditorium, will be featured in the headline attraction to be seen in the Camrose rink on Saturday night, May 24. This big wrestling card is being promoted by the Camrose Hockey Club.

At any time in nearly every life, the supply runs short and you can let nerves, pain, aches and bodily rest. The night sleep, if you can sleep, does not rest you.

You must call in outside help and this suggests the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

There are two reasons. First, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies the mineral tonics and Vitamin B<sub>1</sub>—the essentials for nerve power and energy.

Secondly, for fifty years on the market that product has more than doubled in sales during the last five years.

More and more men are proving its benefits; for men as well as women are subject to nervous tension, worry, insomnia, nervous indigestion, restlessness and tired feelings.

Ack your Druggist for the new economy bottle of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

CLEAN UP!

Help to make your community a place of which we all can be proud. THE EDMONTON JUNIOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE urges you to clean the basement, attic and cupboards in your house. Get rid of old papers and books that are fire hazards and may cause your family suffering or even death. Remember, a clean house seldom burns. Clean up EDMONTON by cleaning up your own home.

PAINT UP!

Even a poor house, well painted, looks better; a well built home, properly painted looks rich. THE Junior Chamber of Commerce suggests that it is time to paint. If you want to get a painter, do a lot more work with modern paints—you can paint from screen frames, window chairs and lawn furniture. The appearance of a painted house, not only gives joy and pride to the owner, but its value is immediately increased.

PLANT UP!

A house set on bare land never has a home-like appearance however architecturally perfect it may be. But shrubs, small trees and flower beds take away that cold barren look; give the house a welcoming, homelike air. Right now is the time to plant trees and shrubs—it is not too late and there are plenty of beautiful flowering plants which may be put in this month. Make your home a garden spot in your community.

LIGHT UP!

THE JUNIOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, in its campaign to beautify Edmonton, suggests that plentiful lighting of streets, stores, and the business areas adds greatly to the attractiveness and safety of a property of a community. More than that, it prevents accidents and discourages crime. In your own home a poorly lighted staircase or walk to the garage may result in serious accidents. Brighten your community by brightening your own home.

No Tax Penalty

A farmer who delivers wheat to the elevator before the end of this marketing year, June 30th, will not have to pay income taxes on the proceeds this year. He can count the money as income received during 1948, and defer his taxpaying accordingly. It will not thus figure in the return he makes a year from now, but in the return he sends in early in 1949.

The advantage to the farmer is obvious. It is not only that he can postpone paying taxes on the proceeds of his deliveries. As these proceeds are to be counted as part of his income for 1948, his tax bill will be reduced by whatever further reductions may be made applicable to income for that year. And should crops turn out poorly next year, this shifting of income from one year to another may keep him in lower tax brackets over the two-year period.

To postpone paying would seem to be a good speculation. In any case the ruling removes any tax-reason for holding wheat off the market and delaying delivery.

The immediate object of this concession is to speed up the movement of wheat to Britain, delayed during the winter by blocked railways and scarcity of ships. Transportation facilities are said to be so improved that all the wheat available can now be cleared from the ocean terminals. That the heaviest possible flow is urgently needed overseas is apparent from the news dispatches which say the people in Britain may have to further curtail consumption or forego reserves in order to avert famine in Germany.

Must Buckle Down*

Thus far in May 21 food-ships have docked at Bremen carrying 100,000 tons of food for distribution in the combined British-American zones of Germany. One of the ships was Swedish. The others were American and British, and their cargoes were provided by the countries directly or by purchase where supplies were available.

Still there is food scarcity, so serious that the daily ration may have to be cut to 300 calories farther below the normal standard, while riots and strikes mark the apprehension and unrest of people in the Ruhr centres.

"If thine enemy hunger, feed him" is an injunction which carries a very literal meaning to the huckster countries which have inherited the job of saving the inhabitants of Western Germany from the consequences of their mad gamble for world power. It is easy to say, as Mr. Devin did, that they are responsible for their own plight. But that does not nullify the claims of humanity, nor eliminate the danger that starvation might drive the desperate masses to thoughts of "revolt and revenge."

A spokesman of the U.S. military government has issued a highly significant warning to the residents of the zone, saying they must buckle down to work on their food problem—or the outcome will be strife in their own country and loss of sympathy abroad. The implication is plain that they have been leaving the occupation officials to do the worrying about food.

It seems also plain that the spirit of self-help is not likely to replace dependence there will some form of self-government be established. Failure of the Moscow conference to gain Germans on their own responsibility critically has not helped to spur their willingness to assume responsibility for our own economic welfare.

The Commission Takes On

It took the United Nations Assembly sixteen days to set up the Palestine Commission, despite the hope of getting the investigation a go-ahead. Just broadly what line of action the delegates hoped the finding will indicate. Whether the report may be, it will be seen up in the Assembly meets again in fall.

It depended on a note of unlock-for-harvest, the wind-up Mr. Grromyko announced that he abandoned its impossible demand for Arab-Jewish state and government, and so go along with any widely acceptable proposal to partition the hotly-disputed territory.

The racial demands which addressed the Assembly apparently succeeded in proving one point to Moscovite satisfaction, namely, that to tie the diplomats together in a political yoke would make them pull together.

The unexpected agreement among the big powers is a hopeful sign that it may be possible to bring the whole weight of the United Nations behind whatever settlement scheme seems most likely to restore order. That being the case, both terrorists and Arabs should understand that continued violence is more likely to prejudice than help their cause.

It Wouldn't Have Helped

President Truman signed the bill which Congress drafted to stop the threatening avalanche of postal-to-postal lawsuits—to the disappointment of quite a number of Democrats and the hearty approval of the Republican majority.

Others have no call to take sides on the question, nor to do more than note for their own possible future guidance what would be the practical results had the avalanche been allowed to descend upon the courts.

That confusion and uncertainty would have been spread far and wide throughout the industrial system of the country is obvious. And had the suit succeeded in great number, industry would have been loaded with an unforeseen burden of new debt running ultimately into billions of dollars—with no increase in productive capacity to balance the account.

That would not have helped to stabilize the national economy, cheaper production, or the general standard of living. Quite the contrary. The effect would be much the same as if Congress were to clamp on a retroactive tax scheme demanding billions of dollars from productive enterprise.

Where Man Fails

This is a tremendous age of achievement.

Man has created a culture unparalleled in human history. He has dominated the forces of nature. He has overcome space, subjugated the sea, conquered the air and explored the earth from pole to pole. He has increased production, organized commerce, overcome many diseases and built the great cities of man.

In many respects, he has made himself master of the circumstances of his life. And he can look around with pride at the creation of his hand and mind.

Yet in the midst of all his material glory, he has built for himself caverns of concrete deep in the earth to ensure his safety. And the gas mask is the triumphal crown he places upon his head.

It is a hollow accomplishment. For while he has made himself master of nature and master of the world, he is not master of himself. And all his creations fall into rubble because he lacks the spiritual strength to equal and to control his intellectual strength.

His creations come tumbling down because he forgets that there is no power in himself to generate that spiritual strength, that such strength comes only from God.

Man is the enigma of creation. He is the problem child of the Creator.

The Power that guides the planets and the seasons has no trouble with His program. Man alone is unpredictable. His free will makes him an uncertain quantity. And when he goes astray spiritually, there is no power in himself to set him right. Only God can come to the rescue of an erring world.

It Would Have Helped

President Truman signed the bill which Congress drafted to stop the threatening avalanche of postal-to-postal lawsuits—to the disappointment of quite a number of Democrats and the hearty approval of the Republican majority.

Others have no call to take sides on the question, nor to do more than note for their own possible future guidance what would be the practical results had the avalanche been allowed to descend upon the courts.

That confusion and uncertainty would have been spread far and wide throughout the industrial system of the country is obvious. And had the suit succeeded in great number, industry would have been loaded with an unforeseen burden of new debt running ultimately into billions of dollars—with no increase in productive capacity to balance the account.

That would not have helped to stabilize the national economy, cheaper production, or the general standard of living. Quite the contrary. The effect would be much the same as if Congress were to clamp on a retroactive tax scheme demanding billions of dollars from productive enterprise.

SCIENCE COMES TO AID OF ASTERS

Asters are rapidly regaining their popularity with home gardeners. Once a favorite flower, the aster, at garden and exhibition flowers, a place which they well deserve because of their size, beauty of form and variety of vivid colors.

But with a new disease known as aster yellows, begins to spread among them, the disease being spread by leaf hoppers, insects which were difficult to control. Both the old and new varieties have been largely overcome. DDT against the leaf hoppers. DDT dust does an excellent job. It is best to start dusting the young aster plants regularly until they begin to bloom, the dust and insecticide they carry can be kept away.

Asters grow so slowly, they usually are given the benefit of an early start in a seed box, in order to get early flowers. But florists have found that if the seeds are sown directly in the garden, and excess plants be obtained by transplanting. Flowers, of course, come later than with plants started in boxes, but the time lost is much later as might be supposed.

If you start your own aster seed in the house, or in a hot-bed or greenhouse, special precautions against the leaf hoppers must be taken. It will pay to distract the seed, using one of the new chemicals available, and then to spray the seed obtained and applied. If instead of soil the seed box is filled with peat moss, the seed will germinate faster, for soil, healthy plants may be dependent upon. Vermiculite, however, is the best material for building insulation. It is much lighter than soil, and easy to handle.

Don't Bury Seeds; Here's Right Depth to Sow Them

For large seeds, make drill an inch deep with the corner of a hoe.

For shallow drill for tiny seeds

Press Edge of Board into Soil

Many failures with seeds are caused by planting too deeply. Even experienced gardeners do this. But it is not necessary to do this. It is likely that seeds are placed in the open garden; they are not that particular.

For small seeds such as radishes, onions, carrots, lettuces, etc., a depth of sowing should be four times the diameter of the seed. This would be impractical, therefore, to measure the seed. Instead, use such accuracy of measurement as is possible. For beans and sweet corn will be sufficient. Make drills a little deeper when weather comes.

For heavy soil, seeds can be placed more deeply than in heavy soil, containing lots of clay. The soil will hold water longer and flower and vegetable seeds will go along quite well. If he uses three inches, then one and a half, or even an inch or two, depending on the soil, and more by using the corner of a board, one edge of which will be made with fine file, then by pressing the edge of a board into the ground.

Rootlings should be told that a drill in gardens is the shallow in which root crops are sown. An inch or two deep, and parallel to each other, and to the row, should be straight, and parallel to each other, and to the row, not only stand the gardener as careless, but they the work of cultivating the garden.

The entire garden should be outlined in the row, and the row squared with the boundaries. Then place stakes for the first row, and stretch a line between them.

Missing Steamer Considered Lost

RANGON, May 17. — (AP)—The Burma government announced yesterday that the 1,000-ton steamship Sir Hiram Maxim, missing since April 17 with 25 passengers, must now be considered lost with all aboard. British naval sources said they believed the vessel struck a mine.

Medium Sized Seeds

Some gardeners use a straight, narrow board as a straight edge. The row straight in garden line is likely to be more convenient; heavy boards are not always handy, but any board is suitable between two stakes will do.

For small seeds such as radishes, onions, carrots, lettuces, etc., a depth of 1 inch an inch deep is enough.

For larger seeds such as beans and sweet corn will be sufficient. Make drills a little deeper when weather comes.

Full Study Demanded*Says "Bill of Rights" May Curtail Freedom

By D'Arcy O'Donnell

OTTAWA, May 17.—(CP)—Efforts to catalogue all the rights of man in an Act of Parliament might result in a curtailment of some of the human rights and fundamental freedoms now enjoyed by Canadians, Veterans Minister MacKenzie said Friday in the Commons.

WARNING THAT AN Bill of Rights to be drawn up by the United Nations like that which falls short of Canadian ideals, Mr. MacKenzie urged members to "scrutinize and analyze closely any proposed Bill of Rights."

He spoke while moving a motion for the introduction of a Select Committee on Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms.

It was his opinion that Canada must play her part in drafting and proclaiming to the world an international Bill of Rights as a guide and a direction post for the freedom-loving peoples of the world," said Mr. MacKenzie.

"IT IS LESS evident that Canada, like Canada, should to the common law should temper with heritage and tradition and with the spirit of the Constitution in statute the freedom that is inherently ours."

John Pfeiferbeck (PC-Lake Country) and others with Mr. MacKenzie argued Canada should have its own Bill of Rights.

F. T. G. (Tommy) Sopko, Saskatchewan criminal lawyer, one of the most eloquent speakers in the Commons, said the resolution he held forth, that the proposed Bill of Rights should have wanted more definite action. Apathy, he said, was as great an offence against freedom as the action itself.

"THEIR CAN BE NO civil liberties under laws that permit discrimination."—In due course, he said, we want civil liberties under a declaration of parliament that will vindicate the individual against the state."

He urged consideration of the War Measures Act of 1914, which he said was passed under the theory "under the emergency theory" to pass laws to the "deterrent of our people." He called for removal of the War Measures Act from the Statute Book, from the Official Secrets Act, and for the scrapping of the Public Security Act, which has been used and interrogating of persons behind closed doors.

He asked that for discontinuation of the practice of having judges of the high courts of justice investigating cases which in many ways dealt with political subjects.

Soil Comes Before Seed for Best Garden Results

Sketches show typical chemical test. Details of various testing kits may vary, but the principle is the same. Adequate test also can be made with lime paper, sand, oil and dried grass stems.

When garden novices think of planting, they think of seeds. But composed vegetable or animal manure, the thumb knows that soil is essential to gardening success.

It's a well-known fact that most plants like to have their roots in soil that is loose and easily run. It is loose and easily run. Good general circulation of air and water is important to the proper proportion of humus. This is demanded by the soil, but the soil, too, needs to be aerated.

Good gardeners make a really scientific analysis of their soil, but if possible, a pound or two should be sent to a soil testing station where a professional station, where they'll gladly do a thorough job for you. Looking at the ground for signs of life, such as worm castings, is another good way to know if your soil is healthy. So Rule No. 1 is "Know Your Soil."

Lawyers To Sail For London June 11

Privity council hearing on the Alberta Bill of Rights will be held either the week of June 23 or the following week, Hon. Lucius Maynard, KC, attorney-general said today, announcing that he and his party were sailing from New York June 11.

The decision of the Alberta Supreme Court that the section of the bill which would establish a Social Credit within the province, was ultra vires, being appealed to the highest tribunal in the empire, the formality of appeal to other Canadian courts having been dispensed with.

Mr. Maynard will be accompanied on his trip by A. H. Wilson, legal counsel to the Alberta government, H. Steel, KC, representing the Dominion government; J. Chambers, KC, Calgary, representing the province; and M. D. Lyon, association president.

Vets Will Meet Before Parade

Major and Minor Notes

By John Oliver

On Sunday, another milestone in the musical history and development of this city will be reached, when the fourth annual Alberta Musical Festival will open. It will consist of three days of musical events, including a concert of winners on Saturday. Forty years represent the average person's life, even though it is small in comparison with the span over which organizations as the New York Philharmonic, the Vienna Symphony Orchestra, the Vienna or London Opera Companies, and so on, and is infinitesimal when measured against the life of the city.

Yet, not a great many organizations in that longer or even shorter span have shown expansion and enthusiasm as has the Alberta Musical Festival. This year, if the fact were not already known, is marking its fortieth anniversary, is worthy of particular attention and merits more than passing notice.

Alberta has pioneered in many fields, including social welfare, political development, education, and in legislation designed to advance the cause of the province and its people as a whole. Thus, it is not surprising that the musical festival was pioneered, and it was in this city that the first provincial level competition in musical contests was held in all Canadian history.

TURK BACK In this ever-changing basis of time to 1886. In that year Earl Grey, then governor-general of Canada, founded the dramatic festival, and it has had a tradition of Canadian stage talent from coast to coast. At that time the competitions were held at Ottawa. This

Prominent in Annual Alberta Musical Festival

city had much talent, but no money for art in those days of real estate boom. The late G. H. V. Bulyea, fifth lieutenant-governor of the then newly-formed province, sought financial aid and means of instrumental funds to aid in the arts, and held a series of consultations with Howard, who, as far as he was concerned, said at one time as far as he could find this side of the St. Lawrence, Mr. Stutchbury came into a home with his then young wife, the vivacious and resourceful Vernon Barford, who was and still is, organist and choir-master of the First Presbyterian Church.

THEY CALLED is another conference, Jackson Hanby, choirmaster of First Presbyterian Church, and the winter of 1926-27 immediately concluded to suggest to His Honor, that a musical festival be held in the city to mark the centenary of the historic Welsh eisteddfodau. The idea met with instant favor. A centennial committee was struck, and organizational wheels began to revolve.

In the result the first musical festival was held in 1927, and opened in All Saints school room on May 5, 1928. This newspaper pronounced the greatest musical festival that Canada had yet known, drawing talent from various points in the province to compete in the city.

It was a great success. There were more than 100 entries, and all 11 classes were open to competition. The first musical festival trophy was the "Alberta Cup," which still is one of the most prized trophies. Winner of the first tenor solo competition was the silver voice, W. J. Hendra, now choir-master of McDougall United Church, and a former member of one of this city's leading musical groups.

TWO CHOIRS battled for top honors. All Saints and St. Paul's, both under Dr. John Roper and Grace directed by his friendly rival, Mr. Stutchbury. The choirs were Billie Thomas and William Matthews, both estimable musicians and capable judges.

The festival was a success, and came on the final night when a concert was given in the Thistle Hall, now the home of the Standard Service Station now operates. There was a festive chorus of 200 voices—too many for the time being at any rate, and an orchestra of 40, the whole program being conducted by the women who were disease and the men the formal "soup and fish." Some 2,000 spectators witnessed the first performance. It was a great event for a section of the country, where the Standard Service Station now operates. There was a festive chorus of 200 voices—too many for the time being at any rate, and an orchestra of 40, the whole program being conducted by the women who were disease and the men the formal "soup and fish."

ON TUESDAY NIGHT there will be a reception in the church at 8 p.m. for all contestants, their entrants and others, may the entrants be entrants from Calgary, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat and many other where the Standard Service Station now operates. There was a festive chorus of 200 voices—too many for the time being at any rate, and an orchestra of 40, the whole program being conducted by the women who were disease and the men the formal "soup and fish."

BUT FROM that splendid beginning, the musical festival movement has grown and grown, almost every province has its annual panoply of competitive events.

Some of the finest musicians in the country, and some of the best young artists, the benefit of their knowledge and advice. Among them are Sir Henry Coward, Sir Graveline Bantock, Sir Hugh Robertson, Sir Harry Pilkington Green, Sir Edward Macmillan, Dr. Ernest Macmillan, Peebles Conn, Maurice Jacobson, W. R. Anderson, Dr. Thomas Armstrong, Dr. James Armstrong, Dr. James Harold Samuel and others.

Now, let Father Time speed forward, for the tenth annual festival, again to be held in the city, will be organized from Britain. Stanley Roper and Cormacus Fisher to direct, and the Royal Philharmonic, Robert Orchard of the University of Alberta, will pass on the torch executive as well.

THE ENTRY LIST has grown to 62 and many trophies and scholarships are to be awarded. There were 20 entries in 1936, there are 223 this year.

The adjudicators are expected to arrive from Vancouver, Victoria, and Moncton, and will get under way at both McDougall church and the Masonic Temple. The adjudicators will be the same, the junior symphony and Holtzman trumpet players. There are six entries in each category.

Main events Tuesday evening will be open vocal competitions, there being 11 contestants in each category. The festival will be a most rewarding vocal evenings of the year. The program schedule will be all choral, with organ, church societies, choirs and choruses competing. There will be some native tongue is the fifteenth anniversary at the June meeting.

Congratulations have been showered upon Irene Mathew on her recent appointment as manager of the Edmonton Civic Opera Society.

Edmontonians are to keep their fingers crossed for Irene, and she will be a most ardent and diligent worker, and under his direction, continued success seems assured.

Mrs. James B. Campbell, director, a past president, Maurice Rockwood, past president, Roland Huggert, general manager, and Mr. Edward King, sectional captain, are soprano Marjorie Ross; contralto, Winifred Weston; alto, Dorothy Ferguson; tenor, Charles Turner.

The Edmonton Philharmonic Orchestra will hold its annual banquet and dance at the Masonic Temple next Wednesday. Members will recall a similar function last year, due to the future, and then will disperse for the summer. Abe Franklin, the orchestra's manager, was addressed at the opening of the summer festival on Friday. Entirely vocal and choral, the festival, said Mr. Franklin, a director of the orchestra, enjoyed his duties immensely. Specially he was pleased with the high standards prevailing in many classes.

Two With Pay

Yesterday the office boy stopped around with the holiday list. All through the office you could see the coming and going of the list of city tips, the deep slumber of men and women who suddenly realized that one again again face the greater world again.

Some of the younger members of the staff, filled with the golden thoughts of the future, were most noticeable. A striping who tells me now he mustered, "Yum, yum."

The older, wiser members of the staff grunted and put their names and dates on the list like the men signing their own execution papers.

They knew the true position of vacancies and abruptly the office seemed a restful oasis, a place safe from the naked sun, the momentary sunburning children, and in the shoes, soggy sandals, where the heat of the brown sand drives and where the brown sand weeks-with-a-bang to bring to mind.

One little fellow, who had a single sheet of cigarette paper and pulls the blinds down at first sight of a shaft of sunlight, pulled it out and gulped a handful of aspirin. In another two or three months the poor man would be a broken spirit for yet another week with a face that was the third coming of the God of War.

Rural House Plans Problem For West

Problem in rural house building in the west, particularly in British Columbia, is being discussed by the government of Canada and of each of the provinces of Canada.

At present, three representatives from the western Provinces, Prof. R. H. Newcombe, supervisor of districts, Mr. J. C. McLean, director of town planning, and Mr. G. E. Moore, assistant director of town planning.

Announcement of the appointment of this committee was made Friday afternoon by the minister of economic affairs.

The committee, financed largely by the Canadian Housing Corporation will investigate problems in regard to rural housing.

It will endeavor to improve conditions in the field of research and to distribute information regarding rural housing through provincial governments, respectively.

They know the true position of vacancies and abruptly the office

650 Attend YWCA Pageant To See Dancing, Gymnastics

By DELVIS CLELAND

The spotlight was on spontaneity, good health and sturdy limbs Friday night at the YWCA pageant in the Empire Room. Stories were told with bright, original costumes and catchy music at the YWCA gym.

An audience of hundreds of young persons watched the dancing and gymnastics.

The show repeats Saturday at 8 p.m.

Much praise for the success of the pageant, which included an age group from tiny tots to adults, goes to Mrs. Art Potter, Misses Ursula Cook and Ruth Douglas, who did work in the designing and making of the hundreds of colorful costumes. Mrs. Art Potter and Mrs. M. Johnstone were presented certificates by Mrs. B. V. Gee, convenor of the health education committee.

Highlights of the pageant included the "red cap" tap number, 60 girls gaily attired in red jackets, white pants and red hand-bands; hats trimmed with gold braid -- circa 1920s; cossacks dancing dressed in white; net ballet costumes for skipping-rope tap routine that drew many a murmur; the tiny tots group dance, little girls in shiny red and white gingham dresses and handshaking hair bows and the wee lads in blue jackets and white trousers.

COLORFUL jockey costumes were the theme added to the "jockey parade of junior leaders; clowns of all sizes and in numerous spots tumbled to the tune of Miss Foothills' jester, lively leopards, and small circus animals with their trainers; seven sets of girls in "Gingerbread" costumes, a organ grinder piece in which the girls were dressed in brown nutty suits with tails, added to the show.

Other tap dance routines were the "Jitterbug" in which the girls wore black and white caps and with natty black caps and "riding rods" in their hands; "Riding patches" jeans and the provincial swing stick.

ADVANCE MODUS of the 1948 Olympic Games, London, Eng., was offered by Misses Mary and Sam, gaudy-suited girls in Olympic Athletic Association Gymnastic springing and leaps, piano and drums. Gymnastic dancing was shown in "creative group numbers by junior and intermediate leaders."

A camp fire special was given midway, and featured interpretive dancing by Misses Doreen dressed in the style of an Indian. Red costumes with midriff top and shorts, silver trimmed tent color, the finale "From Latin America."

The program included: pianist, Mr. T. Malone; Art Poter, Mr. J. Scott; drummer, Art Poter; Mr. A. Starcher and Mrs. W. Grible assisted in the costumes, and Mrs. N. Rutherford, Mrs. G. Turner, Mrs. K. was handled by L. Jordan and intermediate leaders; corps; lighting; costumes, Misses Kydd and Sistons; make-up by Miss M. Kydd.

Mrs. Frank Kershaw of Vancouver, who has been visiting in Edmonton, left Friday night for Calgary before returning to her home.

Canadian Pacific Railway Ladies Lawn Bowling Club will hold a wild drive in the Hudson's Bay Empire Room Monday at 2:30 p.m.

Edmonton Girl Returns Home from Old Country

People in England have a "dull diet" in the opinion of Miss Mary Macleish, who has just returned from a year on a British Council Scholarship at Oxford. She is the daughter of parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Macleish, before returning to her position of senior research nutritionist, with the department of national health and welfare. Oxford students, she said, were very law with the division for three years prior to taking a year's leave of absence for her scholarship abroad.

(Graduating from the University of Alberta in 1936 with a bachelor of arts degree, Miss Macleish has been in household economics. Miss Macleish at Oxford received the post-graduate degree of Bachelor of Letters.)

In post-war England she found the postal calorie consumption high, and milk consumption having increased during the war years to 40 per cent of the total diet. This was due mainly to babies, pregnant women and children.

With the play and won-ers in London," she expressed a desire to return to England "some day."

She visited the ministries of education, health, food and labor in London and checked historical records, and also dealt with special aspects of nutrition in the United Kingdom. In Scotland she visited the Royal Institute, Headquarters of Sir John Orr.

Also she spent one month in Germany, with the Oxford Nutri-

Compliment Keeps Wife Contented

No doubt it is because husbands have their great minds concentrated on the big problems of the world that they do not notice the atomic bomb now that they have got by the tail and are afraid to either let go or let go of what to do about shelter, oil money or dollars to the panhandle; and how to make Stalin change his mind about the atomic bomb. But the wife is more interested in the little things that would keep their wives happy and instead of worrying them, instead of troubling them wonder why they did it.

We will never know the answer to this question, but the answer is too many wives, I suppose, know that the average husband feels that he has done his full duty when he is a simple slave to his wife. And it is the same with the bacon, and that the Little Woman should be perfectly happy and satisfied with the little things of the treasure she has gotten in marriage, instead of griping because he forgets anything and never wants to do anything.

LOGICALLY, perhaps the husbands are right. Certainly it is more important, every man to feed his wife on filet mignon than it is on flower complements and yes—believe it or not—the thing that makes many a man happy, myriad of wives is not that their husbands beat them, but rather that they are a honest man, and a good provider, and a nice home, a car and every comfort, and I suppose I should be happy. But I am missing the point of the real affection. My husband never pays me a compliment. He never notices what I do. He never says anything out to any place of amusement. So far as I can tell I am nothing but a homely old woman.

AND ONE woman pathetically ended her letter by saying: "I don't ask much of marriage. I would be content if my husband would still occasionally treat me as if I was still a glamour girl to him, and bring me a bunch of flowers on my birthday. That would be nice." She may be having a grand time if he would take me sleeping and treat me to a soda at the corner drug store. Otherwise, I am not sure letters wind up by the writers asking how they can get back their husbands.

Announce Itinerary For Freight Hearings
OTTAWA, May 22.—(CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners Friday announced its itinerary for the national freight-rate inquiry, opening May 22 at Saint John, N.B., and winding up at Winnipeg.

Western regional dates:

June 18-20: Edmonton. June 23-25: Winnipeg. June 29 and July 2: Whitehorse. Two days were allotted to each city.

To this column come daily hundreds of letters that are copied with the names and addresses of course, curiously enough, three-fourths of these letters begin by saying: "My husband is a good man and a good provider, and a nice home, a car and every comfort, and I suppose I should be happy. But I am missing the point of the real affection. My husband never pays me a compliment. He never notices what I do. He never says anything out to any place of amusement. So far as I can tell I am nothing but a homely old woman."

Wins Trophy
VANCOUVER, May 17.—(CP)—John Wheeler of Banff, Alta., won the trophy for the best all-around athlete at the University of British Columbia during the last year. The award was presented at the annual convocation dinner last night. Wheeler was prominent on the university's rugby team, and an exceptional scholar.

Change Union
WASHINGTON, May 17.—(AP)—The 31-man CIO executive board today voted to pursue a policy of what to do with a group of workers quitting one CIO union, claiming it is causing difficulties for another, forming another CIO union. The case before the board involves a mass transfer of 10,000 members from the United Mill and Smelter Workers to the Shipbuilding Workers Union.

German Scientists Said Boon To U.S.

FRANKFURT, Germany May 17.—(AP)—Importation of 350 German scientists has "already put the United States 10 years ahead of Britain in some fields," and has saved millions of dollars in research costs, American Army headquarters said yesterday. The German scientists are employed on 100 supersecret projects, including supersonic planes, jet engines, cameras, photography, meteorology, metallurgy, textiles and ceramics—all under the supervision of the war department. Headquarters said, "The United States is not taking a short-sighted view

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Teen-agers want to reduce like their Mamas, in fact, to reduce.

The greatest concern of any figure faults and often develop devastating complexes when they are a while I come to their help in this column.

What is the natural amount of fatness through the waistline is natural in the young girl. As she grows older she loses weight through the middle without any loss of flesh.

"Why Grow Old?" If she indulges in sports and gymnastics she will remain trim and slim throughout life.

Reasons Germans are Hungry

EDMONTON, May 17.—(Reuters)—Town dwellers in Western Germany are very hungry because supplies of food have been forced imports and German farms are failing to meet requirements needed to maintain the ration, a survey of non-beer drinkers in the country's beer-drinking districts showed today.

HERE ARE THE salient facts of the situation, in the opinion of Dr. Alfred Knutson, who has come to set up the scheme at its convention here yesterday. Voluntary efforts to increase production in operation before the end of this year. Almost all aspects of the new plan were well received.

Q—How much of the 1,500 calories per day will be available through official channels?

A—About 1,250 to 1,300 calories on average. It has sunk as low as 650.

Q—Which of the principal foods have fallen in price since the first quarter was 732,000 tons for 1946? The price of grain has made good more than half the April deficit by the end of May. A million tons were promised for April, but only 360,000 tons arrived in April. The price of grain has risen.

Q—What extent have the import regulations taken behind the scenes?

A—The IMPORT program for 1947 was 200,000 tons. This year was 238,000 tons. March 31, 1946, tons: April, 162,000 tons. This year was 135,000 tons. This

TWINSES

"AWSY!" exclaimed Gogo as he ran up to the shoe house one afternoon. "Dat old hen what has been settin' on de eggs up at de big house on de lane done has twines. Yo' all can't tell one from de othah."

"That's fine," said the Cook, looking up from the frog ham he was slicing for dinner. "But don't you fellows invite any of them to come around here. Young chickens are all right in their place, but if they ever get to running around here we won't have any peace."

"That's right," put in the Cowboy. "We don't want them in our garden."

A number of the Teenie Weenies soon made friends with the chickens. They often visited the pen where the chickens lived and the Dunce did considerable chicken-back riding, but the little folks never invited the chickens to the Teenie Weenie village. However, one of the chickens discovered the tiny trail leading to the village and the little folks were soon aware of its visit.

It came very early in the morning while a few of the little people were still in bed. The Cook had put a pot of sassafras tea on the stove for breakfast, the Policeman was in the act of washing his face and Gogo was returning from the creek with an acorn of fresh water. The Chinaman was mixing a batch of rice cakes for his breakfast and the Turk had just split an armful of burned matches for the kitchen stove when a tremendous racket came from the direction of the quart fruit jar which is the Teenie Weenie greenhouse.

The Teenie Weenies came running from all directions to discover a young chicken stuck fast in the greenhouse door. It had popped its head through the tiny doorway in trying to gobble up the young plants that were growing in the jar and which were almost ready to transplant in the Teenie Weenie garden.

The chicken was trying frantically to get out, but its wings were through the door and they held it tightly. The chicken had kicked the steps off and the door hung by one hinge.

Finally it jerked the whole doorway out of the jar,

Then the Teenie Weenie men untangled it from the wreckage. The chicken was badly scared and made off for home in a hurry.

Someone had left the door open during the night and it turned out, as usual, to be the work of the careless Dunce. It took the men half a day to repair the damage, and they took pains to make the door chicken-proof. However, it is hoped that no more young chickens will visit the village until they are old enough to respect property rights.
